

FLASH DRAFT

You are writing a first draft of your realistic fiction narrative. You are creating a road map for your summative and will fill in the details and exact wording as we go along the unit. The hope is that you are using the plot triangle to help you do this, but it's okay if you're switching story ideas.

Make sure to consider exposition, rising action, climax, falling action, and resolution.
